

The Five Themes of Geography

The five themes of geography are Place, Movement, Regions, Environment and interaction. In this report I will tell you about all five themes of geography.

The first theme I will talk about is place. Place is a very important theme in geography. In the world there are big places and some that are not so big. And every place has location in which that place can be found. Some examples of places are Niagra Falls that is a very well known place because it has one of the eight wonders of the world. There are also smaller places like Mt. Pleasant and these types of places are not well known because they are so small.

The second theme I will talk about is Movement. Movement is what makes our world go around it is the movement of products from place to place or country to country. There are a ton of different examples of movement from a bike to a huge ocean liner there are thousands of different ways that show movement. Movement can change people's lives because when people immigrate to Canada they are moving from one place to another. Even if you think about it when you are walking home from school or riding the bus you are moving from one place to another the destination from school always being the same, to go home.

The third theme of geography I will be talking about is Region. Region is very important and without region the whole world would be one country. Region is what separates 1 religion from another. Region also separates 1 race from another and the reason why region is here is because it separates different kinds of people from another. There are peaceful regions and not so peaceful regions. A peaceful region is Canada and a not so peaceful region would be the middle east because it has a big war going on there right now.

The fourth theme of geography is environment. Environment is the world around us if you look out the window and you see mountains then that would be a mountain environment. If you see a grassy flat surface then that would be a flat land environment. Environment is a very important theme because it tells us what a place is like and also helps compare places to another place. If you want to get away from the cold environment that you live in then you would want to go to a place with a warm and tropical environment.

The fifth and last theme is interaction. Interaction is the interacting of 2 or more things with another thing. An interaction in the world would be a hunter hunting a deer or a moose because the moose or deer would be getting killed but the interaction would be the hunter eating the kill because he/she would be interacting with the environment by hunting those animals.

So there is my report on the five themes of geography. Interaction, Environment, Region, Movement and Place.
